MOSLEY NOT MAN TO PUT FASCISM OVER IN BRITAIN

This is Contention of Herbert Morrison, Boss of The Labor Party

PREDICTIONS NOT EASY

His Opinion is That Labor Party Will Step Into Power

Note: "Mosley isn't the man to put Fascism across in Great Britain," Herbert Morrison, boss of the Labor Party, and Mosley's strongest opponent, tells H. R. Knickerbocker in the fifth article of the series on the British Blackshirts.

While admitting it is hazardous to make cocksure predictions regarding Fascism in light of what happened in Germany, Morrison tells Knickerbocker he is sure that Fascism will not gain control. He believes the Labor Party will step into power, and Morrison, writes Knickerbocker, is likely to be the next Labor Prime Minister.

LONDON, Apr. 28.—(INS)—"It is risky to make cocksure predictions about Fascism after the example of what happened in Germany," declares the number one Labor Party enemy of Sir Oswald Mosley, number one British Fascist.

The number one Labor Party enemy of Fascism is Herbert Morrison. Morrison is the boss of London's Labor Party. He is the man who for the first time in history won control of the London County Council for Labor. As its boss he has the welfare of 4,397,000 Londoners in his hands, has 72,000 employees, spends $200,000,000 a year, and controls a territory larger than Denmark or Switzerland.

His probity, energy and brains have put him in front of the field to become the next Labor Prime Minister. He and his party have most to lose if Fascism were to come in Britain. He is the one man in the Labor Party who is credited by friend and foe, with the courage to put over a real Socialist program if Labor were to win a majority in the next Parliamentary elections.

The Fascists would crush him if they came to power. He would crush them if he came to power.

Many people in Britain are cocksure about Fascism in Britain. They call it out of the question. Mr. Morrison is not that certain. "So much depends on events in two fields, in politics and in economics," he observed, filling his pipe and sitting forward in the big chair in front of the huge desk in the middle of the enormous room of the London County Council, "that I shall be cautious in prophecy."

"But at the present moment I do not believe that the Mosley movement needs to be taken too seriously, although it has its significance. Some of our people are quite panicky—well, no, not panicky, but alarmed and think the Fascist danger very real."

"On the whole, however, I consider that if we pay too much attention to the Fascist movement in Britain we merely increase the danger by advertising it, although its hopeless economic should be exposed."

"I don't think Mosley is the man to put over Fascism in Britain." The little boss of London took a pull at his pipe. His accent was pungently Cockney. His phrases were crisp. He wore black horn-rimmed spectacles but there was an air of outdoors about him. His hair looked windblown.

"Mosley hasn't the staying power. He has been in too many movements, taking up first one thing and then another and tiring of them and dropping them. He would make a better film star than a politician."

"Then, too, I don't think the British are the proper customers for Black Shirts and stiff arm salutes and all that sort of thing. We have no appetite for that. I know that Mosley is a greater speaker. I know he is being supported by Lord Rothermere but in this country that can be a political drawback."

"I admit Mosley can get a meeting. But don't forget that at those meetings of his a great many people come out of sheer curiosity. He is good at advertising. If necessary he will bring whole carloads of his people from London or from one place to another to help fill a hall."

"But fundamentally I don't think Fascism is coming in this country for the following reasons: Whenever Fascism has yet come on the continent it has come in the main associated with the real or fancied menace of communism. In Germany the Communist movement preceded the Fascist movement but in part as a consequence of the Communist movement the Fascist movement grew up and for a long time the growth of the two movements paralleled each other until finally the Fascists outstripped the Communists and took the power."

$35,000 FIRE AT PERKASIE

Sellersville, April 28.—Four cows were burned to death and 42 others rescued from a similar fate early today when a fire destroyed a huge barn on the farm of Robert T. Hendricks, situated on Hagersville Road, east of here. Damage was estimated at $35,000. Leon Barringer and Russell Boyer of Sellersville discovered the blaze. They awakened Edward Wolf, an employee on the farm, and the three men led the 42 cows to safety. After a battle of four hours, firemen from Sellersville and Silverdale succeeded in conquering the blaze.

HONORED FOR HEROISM

Pittsburgh, April 28.—For his daring rescue of a 15-year-old boy who collapsed from electric shock on a steel tower 59 feet above the ground, Joseph F. Foy, 37, Trenton, N. J., today had been awarded a bronze medal with 23 others of the nation's heroes by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission at its Spring meeting. Foy, a salesman, was honored for his bravery in rescuing Peter Mintschwerner after the youth suffered a shock from a high tension wire strung on the tower. The boy lay backward across a six-inch beam, his feet close to a wire carrying 26,000 volts of electricity. Although inexperienced in climbing, Foy scaled the tower, drew Mintschwerner away from the wire and extinguished his burning clothes. Aided by a fireman, Foy then carried the victim to within 20 feet of the ground, where a fireman on a ladder received him. The boy died a month later from his injuries.

SOCIAL SERVICE, HEALTH TO BE DISCUSSION TOPICS

Bucks County Public Health Association to Meet in Quakertown

ON FRIDAY, MAY 4TH

QUAKERTOWN, Apr. 28.—Special service and health methods will be discussed at the Spring meeting of the Bucks County Public Health Association and the Bucks County Public Health Nurses to be held at the home of the Quakertown Woman's Club, on Friday, May 4.

The meetings are held annually in different localities, when much is learned from those in authority and a chance given to all in attendance to learn of new methods and accomplishments. There will be addresses by well known physicians.

There will be morning and afternoon sessions. The morning session from 10:30 to 12:30 will include a talk by Miss Bessie I. Patterson, home secretary, Southeastern chapter of the American Red Cross; a talk by Miss Ella McNeil, director of nurses, Southeastern chapter of the American Red Cross; and a round table conference led by Dr. O. H. Strouse, of Perkasio.

From two to four, the afternoon session will meet. Speakers will include Dr. Raymond D. Tice, of Quakertown; J. Harry Hoffman, Superintendent of Schools of Bucks County; and Miss Rachel Childrey, superintendent of the Southwestern District of the Family Society, of Philadelphia. The closing address of the day will be delivered by Dr. H. P. Feigley, of Quakertown, former president of the Bucks County Medical Society.

GIRLS EVENTS

The girls' roller skating race for youth week will take place next Thursday at 4:30 o'clock. All girls interested in music are asked to report to the ward leaders for try-outs for piano, dancing, voice and string instruments. Contests will be held at the Grand Theatre at the Tuesday matinee. All entries are to be given to Miss Marian Harrison by Monday evening.

NOTICE

Attention of ward leaders is again called to the fact that entries for youth week track meet close today. No post entries are to be accepted. Coach Dougherty is in charge.

BOYS' SKATING THURSDAY

Boys' roller skating contest for youth week will take place Thursday at 4:30 p. m. All seniors between ages of 13 and 16 are to meet at Radcliffe street and Jefferson avenue; and Juniors, aged 8 to 12, at Radcliffe and Dorrance streets.

Daylight Saving Time Becomes Effective Tomorrow

Daylight saving time in this section will go into effect tomorrow morning at two o'clock, with residents turning their clocks ahead one hour before retiring tonight.

Churches of the locality, schools, and business places will go on "daylight" time, giving all more hours of daylight to enjoy after leaving their day's employment.

Both the Farmers' National Bank and Bristol Trust Company will make their hours conform, with the institutions being open from 8 a. m. to 2 p. m., standard time, and from 8 to 11 a. m., standard time, on Saturdays. On Friday evenings these banks will be open for business from 6 to 8 p. m. standard time.

With the advent of daylight saving time baseball games will become more numerous, with players and spectators afforded more time to enjoy the sport. As in previous years this time will be used until September.

While the official clocks of the municipality will not be turned ahead, nevertheless the affairs of the community will adhere to the daylight schedule as in previous years.

REPORT EMPLOYMENT THROUGHOUT BUCKS CO.

Farm and Housekeeping Jobs Go Begging, It Is Said

CARPENTERS AVAILABLE

Unemployment in Bucks county has been greatly reduced, it was indicated at a meeting of the directors of the National Re-employment Service in the offices at Doylestown.

Directors, however, suspected that employers in industry and other business have not made use of the employment service as much as would have been possible. Some have, it was explained, but the reported comment of a building contractor that he was unable to get a sufficient number of mechanics caused the belief that he had not sought the employment bureau's aid. To date, the cards in the office show, there have been very few calls for carpenters who are available.

An indication that a great many laborers need not be unemployed, especially if they are single and know anything about farm work, was indicated by the report that there are many requests for farm help that have not been filled.

About 8500 applicants for jobs of all kinds, some of them women, are in the files of the office, but there is no way to tell how many of these persons have jobs. Very few who get jobs notify the office so that their names can be placed on the inactive list. However, men who are assigned to jobs and fail to report are put in the inactive files, as it is taken for granted that they have found work—unless they have dropped the office a post-card to explain otherwise. While it is not an order, the opinion prevailed that it would be a good idea for men still looking for jobs, who are on the list, to advise the bureau at least once a month that they are still unemployed. In that way they would stand a better chance of getting work.

Farm jobs and those for housekeepers, it was reported, go begging. At this time, it was announced, 700 persons are employed on L. W. D. jobs which have taken the place of the C. W. A.; 200 more are working in other jobs, and 300 are employed on P. W. A. jobs of which there are five in the county. In addition to these there have been 200 cancellations of their applications, indicating that they are employed.

Earlier in the month the bureau received word to cut the office force as of April 12th, to seven, which resulted in five persons being laid off. Later authority was given to use all office help needed until April 28th.

L. W. D. (Local Works Division) now operating is intended to provide work on necessary construction work which municipalities would not be expected to do ordinarily, for the jobs which are on relief. The preference in jobs is given to the men with the largest number of dependents.

P. W. A., which is still operating on five jobs in the county, provides for construction work with the State and Federal governments giving 30 per cent. of the cost outright. The chances of getting more of this sort of operation at present is believed to be not so bright, because of the State's lack of funds to match Federal gifts. In addition to this the higher rate of wages decreed, it is said, goes a long way toward eating up the 30 per cent. gift.

One comment made at the meeting was to the effect that, perhaps, private employers of mechanics have been under the false impression that they must pay the P. W. A. or L. W. D. scale of wages rather than that provided by their codes, if any.

Members of the board attending the meeting were Dr. Carmon Ross, chairman; Charles W. Wessell and George S. Hotchkiss, Doylestown, and County Commissioner Clarence Benner, of Quakertown.

VARIETY FOUND IN TWO MEETINGS OF BUCKS CO. FEDERATION OF CLUBS, AS 271 REGISTER FOR THE SPRING MEETING AT LANGHORNE COUNTRY CLUB

Rev. John R. Hart, of University of Pennsylvania, Speaks in Afternoon

PLAY IS PRESENTED

Prizes Awarded in Contests for Quilts, Cakes and Poetry

LANGHORNE, Apr. 28.—Assembling from all parts of the county women of the 15 organizations in the Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs spent a thoroughly enjoyable and profitable day at the country club here, yesterday.

Variety was found in the two day-time meetings, and the 271 club women found their trip through the rain most worth-while. The morning session, starting at 10 o'clock, was given over in most part to reports of the department heads and of the committees. Then for the women's enjoyment in the afternoon there was music; a splendid speaker in the person of the Rev. John R. Hart, of the University of Pennsylvania; and a play which brought to life some of the ladies fair of Shakespeare's plays. The noon-hour in addition to luncheon was marked by contests in which antique and modern quilts were entered; and in which cake bakers vied for honors.

One of the features of the day was the announcement of winners and the awarding of prizes in a poem contest in which club women of the county recently engaged. The winners from among the 22 entered as announced by Mrs. Paul Bennett, Langhorne, were: First, Bristol Travel Club (anonymous); second Mrs. Marian E. Grim, Morrisville; honorable mention, Mrs. Jean Williams Ellis, Bristol Travel Club. The Quakertown Woman's Club took the first honors in the cake baking contest, with Mrs. Howard Plack, Jr., New Hope, having her work honorably mentioned. There were many quilts on display in the club-house sun porch, and those receiving prizes for such were: Antique quilt, Mrs. Frank Lehman, Bristol Travel Club; Continued on Page 4

BOYS AND GIRLS TO RUN BOROUGH GOVERNMENT

Winning Candidates To Be Inducted Into Office On Thursday

GET OFFICE ROUTINE

A municipal election is to be a feature of Youth Week, according to an announcement made today by the Rev. S. Brooks Knowlton, who is handling this feature of the Youth Week program.

It is planned to have two sets of officials chosen, one for the boys and one for the girls. The offices to which each group is to elect candidates are: Burgess, tax collector, justice of peace and council.

Each boy and each girl voting will mark their ballot for three councilmen, each. The 18 receiving the highest number of votes will be chosen for the borough legislative body.

The balloting will be held in the public and parochial schools and the ballots appear in Monday's Courier. Ballot boxes will close at the close of the schools on Wednesday, May 2nd.

Results of the balloting will be tabulated Wednesday evening, and Thursday afternoon the officials will be inducted into office. This ceremony will take place in the Municipal Building at four o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Burgess Clifford L. Anderson and President of Council, Dr. J. Fred Wagner, have promised to officiate at this affair.

After taking up their respective duties the boy and girl officials will be shown the routine of the offices to which they have been named.

All Is In Readiness For Play, "One More Leg To Go"

Have you bought your ticket for "One More Leg To Go," the three-act farce comedy that will be given tomorrow night and Monday night at 8:30, by St. Ann's Guild in St. Ann's School Auditorium? It is for the benefit of St. Ann's Catholic Church.

Many probably never thought that a loving cup could brew trouble for a young tennis champion and his wife. Difficulties begin to arise when Mrs. Janney decides to buy a suit of pajamas and a transformation, having the household low in funds. Suddenly, "company" decides to come and money must be had for refreshments. The Janneys of course could not pawn their baby and Mrs. Janney had sentimental feeling about her engagement ring. They had to pawn the loving cup. It was two-thirds Janney's anyway, as he had won two previous tournaments and had the next one to win (one more leg to go) to call the cup his own.

The big game is to be played in a few days.

Mrs. Janney lends Janney's tuxedo with the pawn ticket in it, not knowing it of course, to a young man going to New York for a wedding and they have to plan to be robbed (by a friend) to save their face and the honor of the club. Only—a real burglar comes in, too. Then comes the difficulty of getting the cup back in time to have it at the club on the day of the big match, and the complications are plenty. It all works out for the Janneys, but not until the very end of the play are their anxieties lifted and peace restored.

A well known local band will add further gaiety to the occasion.

John Campbell Dies At Bucks County Home

John Campbell, better known as "Pussy" Campbell, died at the County Home, Doylestown, yesterday afternoon, shortly after being admitted.

Campbell was taken from a house on Lake street Thursday at about 7:30 p. m. He was taken to the Harriman Hospital and treated and yesterday was removed to the county home.

Campbell was a well known character about town.

LEGION AIR

(By ELMER)

Look for this column in the future and learn more of the veterans organizations—their purpose, benefits to be derived from membership, and legislation affecting veterans and their dependents.

The Four Point Program of the American Legion Adopted by the Chicago Convention in 1933, the first three of which have now become law reads as follows:

1. That no war veteran disabled in line of duty suffers any reduction of those benefits granted such veterans in the World War Veterans' Act as in effect prior to March 20th, 1933.

2. That hospitalization under federal government auspices be afforded all veterans not dishonorably discharged who require hospital treatment and who are not able to reasonably pay for their own treatment.

3. That perpetuation of service connection for all veterans properly granted such service connection, under laws in existence prior to March 20, 1933, be recommended as an item of Legion policy.

4. That the benefits provided for dependents of veterans as established in the World War Veterans' Act be resumed and maintained as the Government's policy and that in no event shall widows and/or dependent children of deceased World War Veterans be without government protection.

Who is Elmer? Elmer is that veteran who continues to stay outside the Legion or other veteran organizations yet expects and goes to them for assistance when in need. The Legion needs you and you need the Legion. The American Legion is rounding out 15 years of service to all veterans. It is your privilege to play a part in its great program. Continue to serve. JOIN THE AMERICAN LEGION NOW.

In closing this series of articles Elmer in behalf of the organized veterans thanks the officers and staff of the Bristol Courier for their co-operation and kindness. The Courier, like the American Legion, would be sadly missed in Bristol, and both should have the whole hearted and loyal support of every citizen.

SUES BRISTOL MAN FOR $500 DAMAGES DONE TO HIS CAR

Action Filed in Court Against Anthony Saranzak By Quakertown Man

SAYS LIGHT WAS OUT

Plaintiff Ran Into Truck Parked Near Red Lion Hotel

DOYLESTOWN, April 28.—Joseph A. Meyers, Quakertown, R. D. No. 2, filed a damage suit in the Court of Common Pleas, here, claiming $500, with Anthony Saranzak, 1015 Pond street, Bristol, named as the defendant.

The plaintiff, in a statement of claim filed in the Prothonotary's office on Thursday, alleges that on December 6, 1933, he was the owner of a sedan which he loaned to Carl N. Meyers.

It is also alleged that a truck, belonging to the defendant, was parked near the Red Lion Hotel, in Quakertown, and that the rear light was not burning. The car driven by Meyers collided with the defendant's truck.

Meyers avers that his car was damaged to the extent of $500.

Herman Yeakel, Quakertown R. D. No. 4, has named the defendant in two damage suits, claiming $10,250. It was learned today when two statements of claim were filed in the Court of Common Pleas, here, Monday.

In the first statement of claim, Anton Wagner, of Bedminster township, who is plaintiff, alleges that on December 18, 1933, Ernest Arndt was driving a team of horses on a road between Dublin and The Elephant when it was struck by a car operated by the defendant.

Wagner alleges that medical expenses cost him $5000. The plaintiff further avers that he was about to turn into his lane when the accident happened.

Claiming the sum of $5250, Ernest Arndt in his own behalf filed a statement of claim in which he hopes to secure damages.

For the death of the horse, he hopes to recover the sum of $200, and for damages done to the horse and wagon, he claims the sum of $50. For personal injuries, he seeks to recover an additional $5000, according to the statement of claim.

Absence of Witnesses Causes Case Postponement

The case of Russell Vandegrift, Eddington, on whose farm two men were found dead of alcoholism April 16th, was continued for the second time today.

The continuation today was due to inability to locate the witnesses for the commonwealth.

Police have endeavored to locate the three men who were also on the Vandegrift farm at the time that the two were found dead. Two of the three wanted men are brothers of one of the dead men.

The men wanted are James McSheffery, Richard McSheffery, Michael Sullivan, all giving Philadelphia addresses.

The case this morning which was to have been heard before Justice of Peace James Guy was continued until May 5th.

SATURDAY, APRIL 28, 1934

BEGINNING OF YOUTH WEEK

Today marks the beginning of Youth Week.

Today the boys and girls of Bristol, Edgely and Croydon will parade and show to the populace just what kind of an oncoming generation there is in this community.

The youngsters have eagerly anticipated this event and are ready to march through the streets to the tune of bands of music and the plaudits of their elders.

Display the flag and give the youngsters a welcoming hand. Encourage them by showing them that you are interested in their behalf and welfare.

Let all Bristol turn out to see the children parade.

TAXES AND INCOME

Some disturbing but enlightening facts are given by the National Industrial Conference board in a study of "The Burden of Taxation in the United States and European Countries."

Among the most startling was that 20.3 per cent. of the national income in the United States in 1932 was taken by taxes. This represented the highest ratio ever reached. In 1929, the total collections, representing federal, state and local, equaled only 11.8 per cent. of national income. Between 1926 and 1929, the ratio remained near constant, fluctuating between 11 and 11.8 per cent.

Taxes increased to $10,300,000,000 in 1930, while national income decreased to $70,300,000,000, with the result that ratio of taxes to national income rose to 14.6 per cent. In the following two years taxes fell off to $8,000,000,000, but national income dropped even more rapidly to $39,400,000,000.

In an interesting comparison between taxes here and abroad, the board showed that for 1932, the last year for which comparable data were available, American collections were almost as great as the combined total of the United Kingdom, Germany and France.

Aggregate tax collections in the United States reached an all-time peak of $10,300,000,000 in 1930. Of this total, federal taxes accounted for $3,500,000,000, states taxes $1,800,000,000, and local taxes $5,000,000,000. In 1932 federal taxes amounted to $1,800,000,000, state taxes $1,700,000,000 and local taxes $4,500,000,000.

Not until the taxpayers awaken to the real situation, which they have been slow in doing, can any improvement be expected. Such studies as that made by the National Industrial Conference board may aid in bringing about this desirable result.

But what makes you think college professors can teach him if you haven't been able to teach him anything.

Now that banks are armed, what about an alarm to ring there when police headquarters are burglarized?

Mosley Not Man To Put Fascism Over in Britain

"The struggle in Germany was plainly a race to see which would get power first, the Communists or the Fascists, with the middle class largely as arbiters."

"The Italian experience was similar. The Communists were not as party such a clear threat as in Germany but the Communist tendency was there. The workers had seized factories and the middle class was panic stricken and begging for somebody to come along and bring order. Mussolini did it."

"In Hungary, of course, the Fascist regime now in power—a modified form of Fascism—took over as a reaction to the Bela Kun Communist regime engineered from Moscow. Austria is a special case. She had been a football of the great powers, but her Fascism came as a direct consequence of economic decay, political weakness and the Fascism in Germany which in turn proceeded from the Communist threat. We have no such threat in Britain."

"The next condition necessary for bringing about Fascism is a state of economic collapse. You've got to have the business of the country in such a mess that the middle-class says 'anything to deliver us' and then they may turn to Fascism. Just as when the workers get desperate they may turn to Communism. Remember that Labor here has some middle-class support, and we must get more."

"Finally, in order to have Fascism, you've got to have the collapse of government. If the present inclination towards economic recovery should stop and the country should sink back into an economic crisis even worse than we have had, and that coincided with a weak and brainless leadership on the part of the Labor Party if we were in power, that could make the danger of Fascism very real. But I don't agree for a moment with Mosley when he says that the Parliamentary system in this country has already failed and that the country holds it in contempt. That has not happened."

"But, Mr. Morrison," I advanced, "the argument of the Fascists now is that the left wing of the Labor Party is the menace that will bring about Fascism—in other words that you will play the role of the Communists in this respect."

"That is not true," said Mr. Morrison quietly. "It might very well be true if we went about our business in such a way as to alarm the country. If we set out to make a panic, we can make one. If we set out to scare the country into Fascism, I suppose we could do it."

"I know there are some who hold the theory that the moment we take office with a majority in Parliament we would have to pass in the first twenty-four hours special enabling acts to enable us to deal with panic and financial collapse."

"But this is not the way we are going to do it, we have reason to expect the loyal support of the nation's armed forces: the army, navy and police who have always been loyal to a constitutionally established government which was prepared to govern."

"In the second place we shall not permit the Fascists to reach such a point of organization, much less of arming, that they will be any danger to our government. In the third place we shall convince the country that Socialism is just plain good business."

"You know, in this country we Socialists do not propose to expropriate the capitalists without compensation, nor do we expect to do it over night. We shall, I hope, go about it steadily but with all possible speed, and with compensation to the former owners of the means of production. The working classes of Britain are with us on that. I suppose it is because they have a certain sense of fair play and are thinking of the pound or so that they have saved."

"At any rate they are willing that the capitalists shall be compensated. And we shall go about it constructively with good sense, socializing industry after industry in an expedient order."

"He paused. 'Do you really think,' I asked, 'that Labor will get a majority in the next election, say if it comes after the life of this Parliament in two years' time?'"

"It is quite possible," he replied reflectively. "As Parliament now stands it takes 308 seats to have a majority. Well, in 1929 we had 288 seats. So we only lacked twenty seats. We may get those in the next election."

"If we don't get a majority it is very possible that we shall refuse to form a government. We would remain in opposition and after a year there would likely be another election when we'd probably win."

"But on the whole when this country is in trouble and people are feeling frightened, the middle-class turns to the Tories. Not to Fascists. They have always done so in the past and they probably will do it in the future. So if the economic depression should get worse and the middle-class gets panicky, they will call on the Tories again and Mr. Mosley will not be their messiah."

"How about the danger of other kinds of Fascism than that of Mosley?" I asked. "How about the top-hat Fascism that some people call the policies of Mr. Walter Elliot?" The question, like the one put to Mosley, related to the program of the Minister of Agriculture outlining a planned national economy.

"In the first place," replied Mr. Morrison, "I am not convinced that Elliot's policies are Fascist. It seems to me to be a mistake to lump together all attempts to bring about some sort of national planning and call it Fascism. Fascism isn't planning. It is an economic failure wherever tried."

"In the second place those people would have no more chance than Mosley to resist the legal government of a legally enacted Labor Party. You may be sure of one thing, that if we are elected by a majority we shall stand for not the faintest shadow of illegal resistance."

"We shall be ruthless in the execution of the law. We shall not follow the example of the Republicans in Germany who let power fall from their hands without a struggle. We shall not permit, as they did, the persistence in positions of power of persons openly and avowedly hostile to the constituted government."

"You can take this much as certain; that if the Fascists are reckoning on the Labor Party repeating the role of the Republicans in Germany the Fascists are going to be bitterly disappointed."

"But there is no reason for any anticipation that the capitalists will resist us by force of arms. I have had experience with many capitalists. There are, I admit, some capitalists, who are downright fools and there is no use arguing with them."

"But there are others who are absorbed in the business of management, and are good managers and they are quite open to the argument: 'Why don't you quit working for this mass of anonymous and greedy stockholders and go to work for the state?'"

"I want to socialize their brains as well as their property."

MANY HAPPY RETURNS!

This week marks the birthday of the first American newspaper

JOHN CAMPBELL, colonial postmaster of Boston, certainly set a good example in the liberal use of the mails.

Campbell corresponded regularly with all the Colonial Governors of New England, keeping them posted on Boston news. So regular and voluminous was this correspondence that Campbell's letters finally emerged in the form of a printed pamphlet called "The Boston News Letter." And this was the first regularly and continuously published newspaper in America, appearing weekly from the last week in April, 1704, to the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

The newspaper carried advertisements . . . from its very first issue! And this advertising, telling the reader where to obtain the goods that he sought for his home or his farm or his business, lifted the mere friendly chronicle of village affairs into the realm of a service to the community. The newsletters, plus advertising, became a helpful, informative, and educational institution.

Today, as in 1704, and all the years between, the advertisements are your guide-posts to honest, dependable merchandise at a fair price.

AMERICAN COTTON PRINTS ARE GAINING IN FAVOR IN PARIS

By Nadia De Beaud

(I. N. S. Fashion Correspondent)

PARIS — (INS) — The American cotton prints that the French couture has introduced to Paris are beginning to gain in popularity by their youthfulness of design and the general air of freshness these materials have when made up into blouses.

Such smart French society women as the Countess de Robilant have taken up the new fad. At the Auteuil races, she wore a dark blue woolen coat with blue leather buttons. The suit underneath was also blue with in American print blouse in red and white squares, which I thought especially pretty as a bright contrast to the dark wool. The skirt was rather narrow with a pleated effect in the back, at the waistline, which is distinctive of Schiaparelli clothes this season. The blouse was finished off high at the neck with a jaunty little bow.

MUST TURN IN PLAYERS' NAMES

Baseball managers of the Bristol Twilight League are reminded that today is the day for the turning in of all signed players. The contracts must be in the hands of Secretary Thomas Juno today to enable the players to be eligible for the opening game. The Twilight League will open its season on Monday night with the Hibernians meeting the Independents on St. Ann's field.

YOUTH WEEK BASEBALL

Schedule for Monday

JUNIOR GROUP
Second Ward—Third Ward
(At Sullivan's)
Fifth Ward—Sixth Ward
(At St. Ann's)

SENIOR GROUP
Second Ward—Croydon
(At Croydon)
Fifth Ward—Edgely
(At Edgely)

Rain yesterday caused the postponement of the Youth Week baseball contests. At a meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Elks' home it was decided to play both the senior and junior semi-finals on Monday afternoon.

The date for the finals will be announced later, depending on the teams which become eligible for the last games. The committee also is checking on the age of the players and managers will be notified of players over the age limit.

YOUNGEST SELECTMAN

ALBANY, N. H.—(INS)—Citizens of this town have selected the youngest selectman in the state in Clyde Morrill, who reached the voting age October 15, 1933. He was elected at the March meeting.

Critically Ill

Mrs. Rita Beery, wife of Wallace Beery, film star, who is in a serious condition from a recurrence of heart disease. She was on the verge of recovery when she took a turn for the worse. Beery is at his wife's bedside constantly.

WHITE ELEPHANTS OPEN
SEASON HERE TOMORROW

The White Elephants, of the Bristol Suburban League, will pry off the lid of their baseball season tomorrow, meeting the Bristol Colored Cubans on the Bath Road diamond.

This will prove an interesting tilt for the Bristol spectators as the Cubans captured both halves of the Suburban League last season with their closest opponents being the White Elephants. In fact, a playoff was necessary between these two clubs to decide the first half championship.

The game is scheduled to begin at three o'clock, sharp.

With one victory under their belt, the Edgely Braves will go after another game tomorrow afternoon, meeting the Stanislaus Club of the Philadelphia Polish League.

Last week the Braves opened with a rousing win over the Holy Name Club of Roebbling and despite the weather a large crowd was on hand. A much larger crowd is anticipated for this week-end match.

"Pete" Fire and "Johnny" Harnsen will divide the hurling for the Braves with the first pitch going up the alley at three o'clock sharp.

TORRESDALE MANOR

Mrs. Emma Knoll and Harry MacNamar, Jr., Elkins Park, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Knoll. Mr. and Mrs. John Brenner and family, Philadelphia, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Katzmar. Jack Brenner, Philadelphia, spent Friday, Saturday and Sunday with Master Edward Katzmar.

Miss Ethel Hartman is confined to her bed with tonsillitis.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hoffman and daughter Elaine, Philadelphia, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stevenson, Sunday.

Betty Ann, Richard and Kenneth Rossbauer have the measles.

The Women's Democratic Club of Bensalem Township met at the home of Mrs. Harry Clermont, Monday evening. Mrs. James Shellenberger, Doylestown, and Mrs. J. William Kane, gave very interesting and instructive talks. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Russell Hansen, Cornwells Heights, May 7th. Mrs. Robert Barnhill entertained the Wednesday afternoon card club at her home. Miss Alice Traub won first prize; Mrs. Harry Clermont, second; and Mrs. Louis Hartman, third. Guests of the club were Mrs. Gale, Frankford, and Mrs. Flood's sister. Refreshments were served.

HULMEVILLE

Mrs. Anna Coxon, Mrs. George Haupt, Mrs. Rodney Artz and son Rodney, of Frackville, have been guests from Thursday until today of Mrs. Coxon's mother, Mrs. Helen Illick.

There were 23 who attended the "bug" party in the social hall of the Methodist Church last evening, with the Epworth League in charge. Small favors were awarded the winners in the games; and refreshments of punch, cakes, candy and salted nuts were served.

Mrs. E. Sharp entertained a party of friends Thursday evening.

Mrs. Albert Laport of State Road, is very ill and under the doctor's care. Children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marshall are suffering from whooping cough.

SEE KIDNAP LINK

Chicago, Ill., April 28—John Dillinger and his widely hunted gang of desperadoes today were linked more closely with the $200,000 ransom kidnapping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, as Federal forces tightened their net about America's No. 1 outlaw. Foremost in a series of rapid fire developments was the arrest of William E. Zidler, an ex-convict, here, and the recovery of part of the huge sum of ransom money exacted from the Bremer family.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Jesse James Perry, 34, Newtown, and Mildred Jenkins, 22, Langhorne, James Hayes, 22, of 159 Jefferson street, Trenton, and Elizabeth Jones, 22, of 35 Kearney avenue, Jersey City. Francis X. Dilo, 29, of 213 Knox avenue, Grantwood, N. J., and Della Tabacchi, 21, of 207 Sixth street, Fairview, N. J.

Variety Found in Two Meetings of Women's Clubs

modern quilt, Mrs. Howard Flack, St. New Hope Woman's Club.

The afternoon speaker, Dr. Hart, was introduced to the large audience by Mrs. William C. Ryan, Doylestown, chairman of education department of the federation, this department's phase of working being stressed by the federation this year. Taking up the question of personal relationships Dr. Hart announced that his discourse might well be titled "You and I." "We all need to learn that we should constantly inspire those about us to give the best that is in them," was one of his first messages to the women. Dr. Hart then stressed jealousy as one of humanity's greatest ills. "While all of us believe in the right kind of competition, we're not satisfied to have the world go on as it is. There is jealousy of all kinds, and in the community life we make great mistakes along this line, and in our own families probably the most mistakes. I tell the young people whom I teach that they do the least for the people who do the most for them, and know the least about them." Various aspects of religion were brought up in connection with this subject, and the speaker mentioned that little has been done about racial relationships. "None of us are satisfied with these conditions because we don't take the trouble to perfect the art of social relationships."

That many people hide behind one virtue and are blind to lack of other virtues was mentioned as one of the great faults of mankind in general. Dr. Hart advocated the "burial of conceits," and said he was "casting out the window and saying 'I'm willing to go half way,' and changing it to 'If I go far enough the other person will eventually get to the point where we can settle the matter.'" The women were urged to become fine artists in personal relationships, and to them was mentioned the motto "Above all nations is humanity." "The solution to all our troubles is to treat each other the right way," concluded the social worker.

Vocal solos for the afternoon, sung by Mrs. Arthur F. Hagar, a former president of the county federation, were: "The Sunbeam" (Ciokey), "Sylvia" (Speaks), and "Her Gown" (Sachs).

Mrs. Charles S. Musser, Langhorne, club extension chairman of the state federation, was introduced by Mrs. Charles Swan, Perkasie, Bucks County Federation president. Mrs. Musser expressed pleasure at the activities of the county clubs, and added she was pleased to note there was no wasted energy in club life in this county.

This second session of the day was concluded by a delightful play in which four members of Langhorne Sorosis, the hostess club, took part. The play, "The Ladies Speak At Last," included characters who stepped from various plays of Shakespeare. Mrs. John Hart was Juliet; Mrs. William Roberts was Juliet; Mrs. William Stark, Ophelia; and Mrs. J. J. Edgerton, Lady MacBeth. The four upon learning that one Will Shakespeare had "ruined" the character of Lady MacBeth reached a decision finally to have him served notice he must leave the inn premises where they were quartered, being of the opinion he was gathering material about their private lives.

The morning meeting was participated in by many. The Rev. H. E. Silder, pastor of Langhorne Methodist Church, gave the invocation; Langhorne Girl Scouts led in the flag salute; and the president of the Sorosis, Mrs. Lynn Harrington, welcomed the assemblage, response being made by Mrs. Swan. The latter told that the success of the federation depends largely upon the individual clubs, and expressed appreciation for cooperation from all the groups.

Selections by the Sorosis chorus included "The Collect" (Rohrer), "Where Heaven Is" (O'Hara), and "Kisses," Miss Lillian Patterson was the pianist.

Minutes were in charge of Mrs. Hugh D. Graham; report of the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Daniel H. Erdman; treasurer, Mrs. Henry I. Moyer, Perkasie, Mrs. Swan announced that trees planted at Washington Crossing Park by the federation are to be attended to at once under direction of the organization, either being treated or replaced as needed. Hereafter the park commission will care for such.

Reports of department heads were given, these having been arranged by the following: American Citizenship, Mrs. Robert Grim; American Home, Mrs. Paul Bennet, Langhorne; conservation, Mrs. Howard A. Clymer, Eureka, who was assisted by Miss Elizabeth Egolf, Sellersville, the latter giving a monologue "Bill Boards," education, Mrs. William C. Ryan, Doylestown; scholarship, Mrs. Alfred Danser, Yardley; fine arts, Mrs. William Tinsman, Lumberville; international relations, Mrs. George I. Walton, Newtown; juniors, Mrs. Harold T. Greene, Langhorne; legislation, Mrs. Fred I. Miller, Doylestown; press and publicity, Mrs. Clayton Zetty, Warrington; public welfare, Mrs. Stuart Hartzell, Chalfont; public health, Miss Laura Haines, Doylestown.

Committee reports were by: Club institutes, Mrs. Evan Roberts, Morrisville; gardens, Miss Gertrude Shearer; resolutions, Mrs. George G. Bennett, Yardley; parliamentary, Mrs. Ferdinand Sommer; speaker's exchange, Mrs. Albert C. Rutter, Perkasie; S. P. C. A., Mrs. Irwin M. James, Doylestown; membership, Mrs. William J. Kelly, Chalfont.

The county president stated that on June 12th the 20th anniversary of the federation will be marked with a luncheon at the country club here. Mrs. Hagar was named as general chairman for the birthday party, with Mrs. William Moyer, Perkasie, as chairman of the luncheon committee. Other committees were named to care for the program, decorations, etc. A motion was passed adopting green and white as the county colors and the fern as the county emblem. These were the choice of county officials these years ago, but no official action had been taken. Mrs. Bennet was named as a delegate of the federation to the school of family relationships at Dickinson College, Carlisle. Chairman named for the program committee in charge of the Fall meeting at Newtown is Mrs. Robert H. Grim. A motion was passed to present prizes of $10 and $5 in the international relations essay contest again this year. This contest conducted among school students is county wide.

In reports given during the morning the membership throughout the county was shown to be 1300, and it was brought out that 13 clubs had had membership gains during the year. A representation from a new club, Morrisville Woman's Club, was welcomed, and to the president, Mrs. Howard Riddle, Mrs. Swan presented a gavel. Mrs. Greene, county chairman of juniors, welcomed a new junior club, the Warrington Juniors, and gave to the temporary president, Miss Helen B. Ruff, a gavel.

Mrs. Swan introduced during the first meeting Elwood Chapman, chairman of the Pennsylvania State Park Commission, who told of park work in the state. He informed them that this state is practically in the lead in the United States in its forestry work, there being 2,000,000 acres in the state for public use. The fine pleasure such parks afford the people of the state was mentioned, and "Mystery Park," which is expected to soon be a reality and easily accessible in this part of the state, was mentioned. He mentioned that a 5,000 acre tract is available, if club women of Montgomery, Philadelphia, Delaware and Bucks Counties, will back the project.

Among the guests present were Mrs. John Phillips, president of the Delaware County Federation; and Mrs. Allen Craig, head of the Montgomery County Federation. These two women responded charmingly to introductions.

The day's program was in charge of Mrs. William C. Ryan, Mrs. Charles H. Ort, Mrs. Lynn Harrington, Mrs. T. B. Megaree, and Mrs. T. L. Ashbridge.

America's favorite, biggest-selling novelist... author of the unforgettable Shepherd Of The Hills... now writes

Ma Cinderella

Modern high-powered civilization... or primitive mountain life—which is closer to the real secrets of the human heart? Ma Cinderella ruled with an iron hand over a tribe of mountain hill-billies, yet underneath, with beautiful simplicity, she believed that some day a fairy godmother would take her away from the primitive Ozark mountains and elevate her to the glamorous life of the big city.

She finally did go to the city. But the only fairy godmother involved was Ma Cinderella herself... for it was the mountain woman who saved her city son's modern romance from complete disaster!

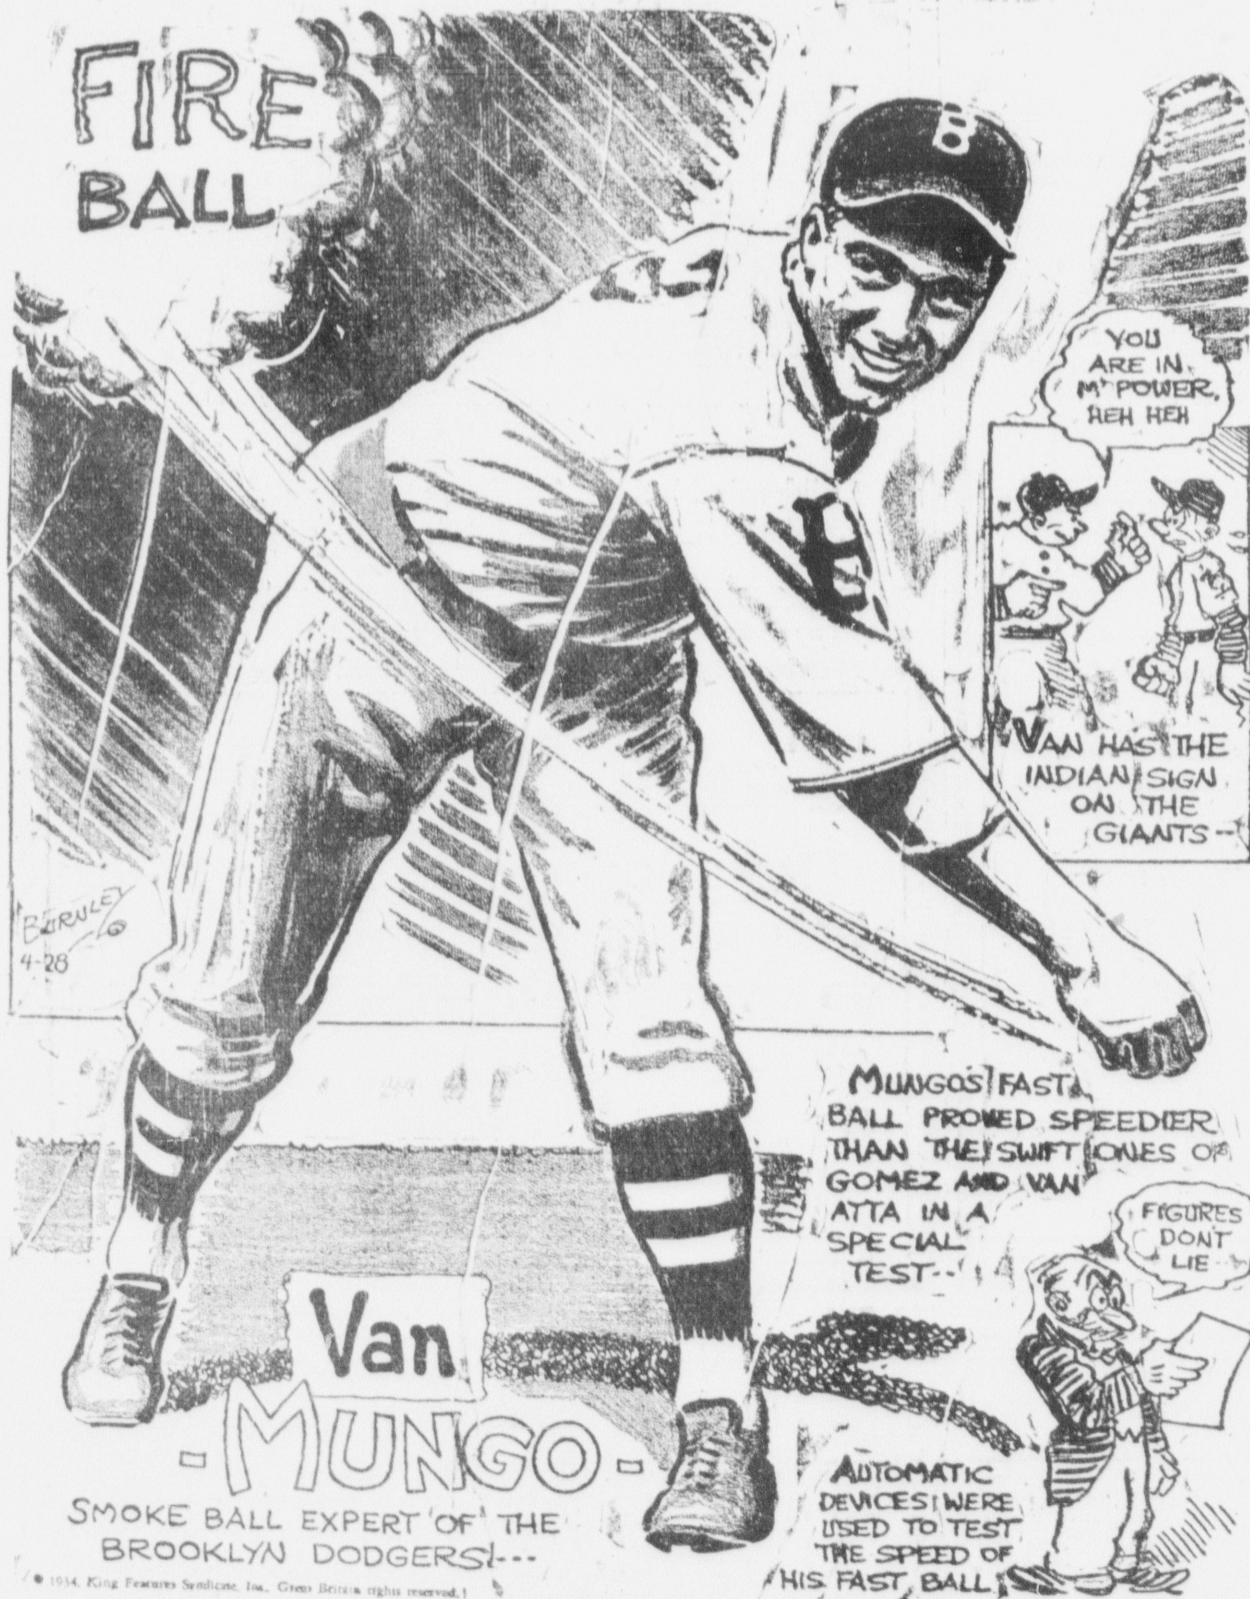

Harold Bell Wright's genius gives you in Ma Cinderella a magnificent woman—a great mother who will win your heart completely. Don't miss it.

Brooklyn's Buzz-Ball Beauty

By BURNLEY

CASEY STENGEL'S Brooklyn Dodgers may not be going any place in particular this season, but they have one pet ambition and that is to beat the Giants as often as possible.

The Funny Men from Flatbush have a real honest to goodness feud on with Bill Terry's champions. Of course, the Brooklyn-New York rivalry is traditional, but this year the Dodgers have an extra special motive against the Giants.

It all started last winter, when some inquisitive reporter asked Terry what he thought of the Dodgers' chances in the present pennant scramble. The untactful William countered with the ac-query, "Are the Dodgers still in the league?"

As they say in dear old Brooklyn, that "boined" the Dodgers up. And now Casey Stengel's crew is out for revenge, sweet revenge.

Casey himself opened Brooklyn's anti-Giant campaign this spring by insisting that he would use Van Lingle Mungo against the Giants as often as possible.

Mr. Van Lingle Mungo (just call him Van) happens to be the Dodgers' best pitcher and the Giants' most feared jinx. Mungo appeared to have the well-known Indian sign, the Terry men last season, and if his mound magic continues to mystify the Giants, Stengel will use him against the hated rivals at any and every opportunity.

Mungo is a fast ball specialist, otherwise known as a smoke ball expert, or a fire ball firer. He is unquestionably one of the swiftest tossers of speedy stuff in the Heydler loop.

Last summer an interesting test was arranged to measure the speed of Mungo's "swift one." The two fastest hurlers on the Yankee pitching staff, Lefty Gomez and Russ Van Atta, also tossed their hard ones in this test, in which the speed of the pitchers' deliveries was measured by scientific instruments.

When the figures were checked up, Mungo's speed ball proved to be easily the fastest of the three.

Big Van will certainly try to burn them past the Giants' bats whenever he faces them this season.
